

Important information for FightingBob.com newsletter subscribers:

Prevent your newsletter from being filtered as junk mail.

New federal anti-spam (junk mail) email laws have caused many email service providers to tighten their automatic spam-filters. As a result, these spam-filters are sometimes too inclusive and may filter emails that aren't necessarily spam. These messages are normally rerouted from the recipient's inbox to a "bulk mail" or "to-be-deleted" box where the messages are often overlooked or discarded. While this service is great for filtering unwanted messages, we have found that several of our subscribers are no longer receiving our weekly newsletters due to this filtering.

We invite you to list FightingBob.com as a preferred sender with your email service provider to prevent this problem from occurring. This tells your service provider that you want to receive our newsletter and want our messages routed directly to your inbox. This process is called "white listing."

Below are instructions on how to white list FightingBob.com's newsletter on some of the most popular email service providers. If your service provider is not listed below, please contact them directly to ask how to white list.
